10 Steps to Electronic Filing with LegalXML and ECF 4.0

The 7 Steps found within this Quick Start Guide will assist you with the minimum requirements to implement the Electronic Court Filing 4.0 specification in your e-Filing environment.

Advancing open standards for the information society

QUICK START GUIDE

LEARN HOW TO:

- Standardize integration methods in your e-Filing implementation
- Integrate with any potential e-Filing Service Provider or share e-Filing data between systems or with partners
- Setup a single method of processing data related to e-Filing

PREPARED BY:

George Knecht
Owner, President
PC Intellect LLC
602.380.8049
george@pcintellect.com

CJ Allen
Business Analyst
Maricopa County
602.506.3631
allenc@cosc.maricopa.gov

INTRODUCTION

service uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of

The steps for implementing ECF are:

- 1. Determine Something
- 2. Go ahead and hire someone
- 3. think about this
- 4. Do this
- 5. eFile!

the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing.

STEP 1. LEARN ABOUT ECF

In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for rocessing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webse

STEP 2. DO ECF

o maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these valueo maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these valueo maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these valueo maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the

SAMPLE XML:

```
</jxdm:ContactTelephoneNumber>
- <jxdm:ContactEmailID>
 <ixdm:ID />
   </ixdm:ContactEmailID>
 <jxdm:TelephoneNumberFullID />
 <jxdm:TelephoneNumberCommentText />
```

webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these valueo maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these valueo maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these valueo maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these valueo maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these valueo maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these valueo maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these valueo maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these valueo maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various values it needs for processing. In order to maintain these valueo maintain these values and provide access to the caller of the webseservice uses a server Session object to maintain various

PAGE 3 www.oasis-open.org