Conference Agenda

In response to feedback after last year's conference, this year will include two tracks in order to address topics relevant to both technical developers and managers. Current and future NLETS XML and web services initiatives will be discussed and implementers will share their experiences and lessons learned.

Both tracks will address the same set of topics, but presentations will focus on those areas of interest to each group. Presentations will include XML standards, service oriented architecture, web services, security, privacy, performance, image handling, testing and centralized services. Presentations and case studies will be delivered on each of our current XML and web services projects, as well as ample time for Q&A and round table discussion. We have budgeted time for users to present their experiences and lessons learned. If you are interested in participating in the user implementation presentations, please contact Bonnie Locke at blocke@nlets.org.

Who Should Attend?

This workshop is specifically designed for implementers, developers, and technical managers in the field. The managerial track still carries an expectation of familiarity with XML and its related technologies.
