

Excel, use of, to track content reuse, 74–79 experience (see user experience) experts content development, 11 content strategy, 11 information architecture, 11
 Extensible Markup Language (see XML)

F

Farrell, Joseph, 158
 findability, of content, 104
 Flash, intro to restaurant website, 16, 18 form follows function, principle, explained, 11 form, function crammed into, 11 format separated from content, 260 various meanings of, 155
format lock-in, 163
   (see also under PDF)
   risks of, 157–159 signs of, 159
 fragments, 178 cost of updating, 178–179 reusable, 178 function, crammed into form, 11

G

genres, of copy enabling, 133
   persuasive, 132–133 given-new contract, 133 global village, web as, 153 Gollner, Joe, 5, 70 governance, 246
   as risk management mechanism, 48 as stumbling block, 51–52 content strategy derailed by, 65 enforced through policy or technology, 55 explained, 47

going hand-in-hand with compliance, 48 model for, 261 role of, in managing complex content, 47 tackling fear of, 52–54
 Grameen banking system, 40 granularity, 174

H

Halvorson, Kristina, 104
 HAT (see Help Authoring Tool)
 Help Authoring Tool, 71 files, prepared for migration to DITA, 74 (see also DITA) used to produce topic-based content, 72–73 help documentation (see documentation)
 Hester, Chris Opitz, 48
 Howard, Dr. Tharon, 35, 46
 HTML
   as content structuring standard, 74 as markup language, 198
   HTML5, 193
   as mobile format, 155
 HyperText Markup Language (see HTML)

I

IA (see information architecture)
 iBook, 155
IMRAD
   (see under modules)
 index
   as content, 36 created by tags in Facebook, 190 links in, 134
 indexing by metadata, 190
   by search engine, 161
 inertia, danger of, 7, 101 information

- explained, 189
- reuse of, 174
- types of, 260
- micro-lending, 39
- mobile
  - apps, 192
  - friendly content, 115, 117, 120
  - internet, 155
  - rise of, 154
- modalities
  - explained, 137
  - inconsistencies across, 119–120
- modular content, 166–167
  - (see also modules)
  - improving user experience through, 32
  - soft references and incorrectly reused content
    - consequences of, 169
    - examples of, 167–168
- modules, 166
  - (see also modular content)
  - as reusable content, 129, 166, 170–172
    - across an organization, 172
    - across deliverables, 171
    - benefits of, 172
    - within a deliverable, 170
  - defining types of, 169–172
  - explained, 166
  - IMRAD, 169–172, 179
  - used to build user-centric content, 173
- MS Word, as page-oriented format, 161
- Mulder, Steve, 231
- multiple-use assets, content as, 93
- multiplicity
  - explained, 122, 137–138
  - in content creation, 138–139
  - in content delivery, 140
  - in engagement with audience, 140
  - in semiconductor industry content, 144–146

N

- navigation, less important to sales than search, 110
- navigational pathways, through core content pool, 164
- network markets, 158
- news release, as persuasive copy, 132–133
- NFF (see "No Fault Found" returns)
- Nichols, Kevin, 91
- Nielsen Norman Group, 219
- nimble content, 103
  - (see also adaptive content)
- No Fault Found returns, 83, 121, 149

O

- object-oriented content, 62
- online help, 71
  - (see also documentation)
  - WebHelp and .CHM files, 72
- ontology, 240
- operations, goals of, content strategy tied to, 14
- organizational chart, irrelevance of, to customers, 147
- organizational readiness, for content strategy, 212–214
- output channels, various, 83

P

- pain point
  - content as, 11–12
  - of ad-hoc content system, 85
- Pareto principle, 109
- PDF, 83, 88, 120, 147
  - as file type, 155
  - as mobile format, 155
  - as page-oriented format, 161
  - as printable or downloadable document, 161
    - brochures, 136, 156
    - manuals, 72, 119, 145–147
    - format lock-in, 88, 243, 251–256
  - hot-linked Table of Contents in, 134
  - indexed by search engine, 161