ALASKA	Personal knowledge, or government-issued ID containing the photograph and signature of the person signing, or government -issued ID containing the signature of the person signing without a photograph and another valid identification containing the photograph and signature of the person signing.	Notaries public are not required to keep a journal. You are not required by law to keep a permanent record of your notary acts; however, the Notary Public Office cannot emphasize enough the importance of recording every notarization you complete. If a notarized document is lost or altered, or if certain facts about the transaction are later challenged, the journal becomes valuable evidence. It can both protect the rights of citizens and help you defend yourself against false accusations.	No stated fees, but a fee schedule must be posted.  Limited Governmental Notaries may not charge.

However, a Notary Public is required to keep and make a record of all marriages performed (see 19-A M.R.S.A., Section 654).  The Secretary of State strongly recommends that Notaries Public maintain a record of all notarial acts.	"There is no schedule of fees that a Notary Public must charge. The only statutory reference to fees is found in 4 M.R.S.A. Section 958 which specifies a charge of $1.50 in the course of a lawsuit to provide for the notification of parties, making of certificate and recording the proceedings.  "For other services, the Notary Public may determine the fees to be charged. Given the fact the citizens of the State of Maine are placing trust in Notaries Public when seeking their services, it would be most inappropriate to charge fees which are unreasonable or unfair."
MARYLAND	Obtain satisfactory proof of the identity of the person signing the document.  Satisfactory proof is that amount of proof which is sufficient to convince the notary public that the person making the acknowledgment is the person described in the document, and the one who executed it. A good rule for a notary public to follow would be to require such proof of identification as he or she would require to cash a very large check for that person.	Maryland notaries are required to keep a fair register of all notarial acts, including the name and address of the customer, the date the customer appeared, the method of identifying the customer, the type of notarial act, the type of document involved, the fee charged, and the signature of the person signing the document.	$2 for each original notarial act;  $2 for each signature on an original notarized document;  $1 for each signature on each copy of the original notarized document;  $1 per page for photocopies of notarized documents and entries in the fair register. MISSOURI	The best form of identification is one that includes a photograph and signature. A valid driver's license is a good source of identification. The person can also be personally known to the notary or can be identified by an individual personally known to the notary.	The notary is required to keep a permanently bound journal of their notary acts. Each notary public shall keep a permanently bound journal of his or her notarial acts containing numbered pages, except those notarial acts connected with judicial proceedings, and those for whose public record is publicly filed within ninety days of execution. Each notary public shall record in such journal the following: the month, day and year of notarization; the type of notarization such as acknowledgment or jurat; the type of document; the name and address of the signer; the identification used by the signer; the notary fee; and the signature of the signer.	A notary public is allowed to charge fees for notarizing documents. Section 486.350, RSMo, allows a notary to charge two ($2) dollars for each signature on a document and the proper recording of the notarization in their journal. The maximum fee for any other notarial act is one ($1) dollar. A notary may charge two ($2) dollars for each 8 1/2" x 11" inch page they certify as a facsimile of an original document. The certification of a facsimile must also be recorded in the notary journal. The notary must also retain a copy of each page in their notary file.

SOUTH DAKOTA (continued)	Failure to do so could result in financial loss to someone who relied on the notary's certificate. It could also result in an effort on the individual's part to recover his loss from the notary. These cases could involve impersonation or forgery or both. The crucial question then becomes "what degree of care was exercised by the notary to ascertain the identity of the person making the acknowledgment." A driver's license might be used to identify the acknowledger. The notary must be certain that the acknowledger is who he purports to be. A notary is a public officer and a great deal of faith and confidence is placed in his or her official acts. Illustration of an Affidavit IDENTITY OF AFFIANT--In most states it is not necessary for a notary to request identification of a person making an affidavit because he does not vouch for his identity in any way. VERMONT	We recommend utmost prudence in the performance of notarial acts. Your greatest vulnerability comes from acknowledgments of signatures by signers you don't know personally. If you don't know the person to be who he or she claims to be, you have three choices. You may refuse to act. You may rely on a credible witness, who is personally known to you. Or, to be most prudent, you can insist that a credible witness personally known to you takes and signs a written oath, administered by you as a notary, that he or she personally knows the signer. As a notary, you are then testifying to the witness's oath. - Short Guide for Vermont Notaries Public	Keeping a journal of your notarial acts is also not required by Vermont law, as it is in many other states, but it is a good idea.
